

The Green House Project MERIT Staff Assessment Survey Results Summer 2020

Prepared by
The Calvin University Center for Social Research

What you need to know

Your organization's MERIT report identifies areas of strength and opportunity related to the Green House model.

The MERIT assessment gathers multi-stakeholder feedback from your Green House homes to assess how well the organization is adhering to the model. It is not a scorecard. It is intended to be a useful tool for you to hear the voice of your care partners and strive to celebrate and build upon your successes and develop plans for greater fidelity to the model.

There are multiple pages to the report. Most of the pages have multiple charts on them. The report contains MERIT results for your organization – an overall result, scales results, subscales results, and individual questions results. It also contains scores from the overall Green House Linked Up Network (all other sites who participated in MERIT this year). Ideally you want your results to be in line with, or better than the Linked Up Network scores. The report allows you to benchmark against other Green House sites as well as benchmark against your previous results (see Figure 1).

The report provides a three-year comparison for your organization. Pay particular attention to this year's scores and then notice if they are going up or going down from the previous year.

Scoring is based on a 5-point scale. The best possible score is a 5.0.

- 5 = Definitely true
- 4 = Mostly true
- 3 = Somewhat true
- 2 = Not very true
- 1 = Definitely untrue

A can't say response may indicate that the person did not know the answer (perhaps because they are new to the organization or not familiar enough with the day-to-day practices of the GHHs) or because the person did not feel comfortable giving an answer. Organizations are encouraged to evaluate the circumstances when 20% or more respondents indicate can't say.
